The Newark-Granville Youth Symphony (NGYS) is an educational outreach program of The Newark-Granville Symphony Orchestra (NGSO), a local 501(c)3 nonprofit. The NGYS is in its ninth season under the direction of Susan Larson. The NGYS brings together gifted young orchestra musicians from Licking and surrounding counties, providing opportunities to study and perform a broad range of orchestral repertoire. We are committed to inspiring cultural awareness and appreciation of music, strengthening our region's existing school music programs, and helping students develop their musical skills to their fullest potential. For more information, please call Susan Larson at 740-501-0461.
